

Role-play / actor profile – Hannah Wood

Background

Hannah has extensive experience as a roleplay actor, which she has been doing since 2009. She has worked within both the medical and corporate sectors for public and private clients.

Hannah enjoys bringing to life scenarios and making them as natural and realistic as possible to aid clients in their training. She has worked on many varieties of scenarios and simulations, from delivering bad news, to extremes of playing car crash victims, and everything in between. Hannah specialises in delivering constructive and positive feedback, as well as being highly experienced in drama-based training techniques, such as hot seating, forum theatre and facilitating group discussions.

Experience

Hannah graduated from the Royal Birmingham Conservatoire in 2008 with a BA (Hons) in Acting.

Previous clients include: Royal College of General Practitioners, University of Surrey (Medical & Vet Schools), King's College London, St. George's Hospital, Imperial College London, TFL, British Army, RAF, Royal College of Anaesthetists, South East Water, London Business School, Royal College of Art, Victoria & Albert Museum, Kaplan Solicitors.

Acting

Hannah has worked extensively as a voice over artist, voicing commercials for Trainline, Calpol, Gumtree, Always, Royal Navy, Dreams Beds, to name a few. She also provided the narration for several documentaries for Channel 5. Her TV and film credits include Downton Abbey (ITV), and most recently starring alongside Sheridan Smith in the feature film The Railway Children Return.
